

US Gender & Disaster Resilience Alliance

Women around the world demonstrate great leadership and courage in crises, and work hard to prepare families, workplaces and neighborhoods against threats. But we do more than respond and rebuild. Shoulder to shoulder with the men and women in our lives, we are striving for more just, sustainable and disaster resilient communities—here at home, across the US, now.

American women have a long legacy of activism promoting racial justice, women's and children's rights, economic fairness, environmental stewardship, peaceful conflict resolution, and the human rights of all those marginalized in our society. This women's history is a strong foundation for building a safer and more resilient American future for us all, with women as full and equal partners with men.

Through the GDR, we seek common ground and collective action for change for the public good.

We are an alliance of women's organizations, community groups, activists, residents, policy makers, academics and emergency managers and responders.

*Join in as you can,
we need and
welcome you.*

Website

Visit us here:
<http://www.usgdra.org>.

Listserv

To join the listserv, email:
usgdra@gmail.com.

Sister Network

Please visit the global
Gender and Disaster Network,
<http://www.gdonline.org>